

METHOD AND SYSTEM FOR PRODUCT
PLANNING

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A web-based method and system for product planning for business includes receiving information concerning the attributes of a product from a user and using a server to compile the information and the relative importance of those attributes as judged by a user, and to disseminate the results of that compilation.